Resolution Number: RS02-195
January, 2002
ACADEMIC
SENATE

Resolution
on a Moratorium on the Death Penalty

#RS02-195

The spirit of the university is embodied in open and rational discourse, humane forms of problem-solution,

Whereas

The humility inevitably generated by the quest for knowledge, and dedication to justice; and

The

Whereas

anger and fear ensuing from crimes very often incomprehensible to the average individual are inimical and even contrary to the values and spirit of the academy;

and

The

Whereas

knowledge resulting from new technologies makes it apparent that the death penalty has resulted from evidence persuasive in the moment but later (and sometimes irremediably) shown to be inconclusive; and

It has been demonstrated repeatedly that the death penalty is unfairly applied to individuals on the basis of their racial and/or ethnic background, ignorance and poverty, major mental retardation, and/or severe emotional deprivation or damage, and substandard legal representation; and

The report of a highly-respected commission comprised of both supporters and opponents of the death penalty calls for massive reforms in the way states and the federal government now conceptualize and use the death penalty; and

For many of these reasons the states of Illinois and Maryland recently enacted a moratorium on the death; penalty; therefore be it

Resolved
That
the SFSU Academic Senate endorse actions to place a moratorium on the death penalty in the state of California, and further be it

That
the SFSU Academic Senate urge its elected representatives to support pending legislation calling for a moratorium on executions; and further be it

That
the SFSU Academic Senate reaffirm its commitment to the values of reason, open
discourse, and justice that give vitality to the more mundane activities of the university;
and
further be it Resolved
