

Resolution Number: RS20-396

April, 2020

Whereas:

RATIONALE: As a result of the COVID-19 epidemic reaching San Francisco, SF State suspended (on March 11, 2020) in-person classes and directed that faculty move to remote instruction. While these changes were instituted for good public health reasons, they have necessarily disrupted the normal pedagogy and processes of the University. We recognize that while other CSU campuses have handled some of these issues differently, the level of staffing that exists in SF State's Enrollment Management division and the need for manual processing of graduation applications at SF State restricts our response in ways aren't present on other campuses.

Whereas:

the global COVID-19 pandemic constitutes serious and compelling circumstances in the life of SF State students; and

Whereas:

many students are struggling to complete their coursework in a remote modality; and

Whereas:

students should be given the maximum flexibility possible to make choices about grading and withdrawal from courses; and

Whereas:

the sudden transition to remote instruction may make students unclear about the expectations for their courses and how their learning will be assessed; be it therefore
