

Sarah Curtis: LCA

I have a long-standing interest in international programs, having lived and studied abroad. I think SFSU strong study-abroad programs are one of its major assets and would like to contribute to international education on campus.

Frederick Green: LCA

I have served on the senate once before, between 2017-2019. In addition, I have served on committees at every level of the university in my 12 years at State. As the current chair of the Modern Languages and Literatures Department and a long-serving member of AUCIP and SF State's ACIP rep, I will continue to advocate for the internationalization of our campus.

Arezoo Islami: LCA

It was a delight to serve at the senate for one year, in 2023-2024, using my skills as a philosopher of mathematics and science. After a year of serving on the Campus Curriculum Committee, I have learned a great deal about our degree programs, minors and majors, and course proposals specifically, and the inner workings of the university more generally. I hope to use this knowledge, my familiarity with the senate and my continued learning, to best serve our students as a CCC member for a 3-year term.

Scott Siegel: LCA

SFSU is at a cross-roads in which it must balance the reality of declining enrollment while also delivering an excellent college education. Yet declining enrollment is not our destiny. By serving on these committees I believe I can help my colleagues develop curricula that not only meet the needs of current students but also generate interest among future students that will increase enrollment. I have substantial experience teaching and working with academic departments and universities around the world. I'd like to expand our course and program offerings in other countries, while ensuring they are affordable to our students. I also have substantial experience designing new courses in the IR department. I understand some of the hurdles and challenges designing new courses faculty are facing. I have a series of recommendations to improve the process that would make sure all stakeholders have a more positive experience designing new courses and still meeting our General Education learning and program objectives. I'm a strong believer in SF State's vision in providing an excellent college education that is innovative and exciting for our students.

In the IR department I have advised graduate students for over eight years. I understand some of the challenges and rewards of a graduate education at SF State. I hope to work with my colleagues to improve the experience, while maintaining our academic excellence and appeal to students from around the world.

Tara Lockhart: LCA

I have taught at SF State since 2008, serving in several administrative roles that help to run the undergraduate writing programs, supporting FYE and tutoring services, and advocating that all our students are met with meaningful, culturally-responsive curricula and instructors that believe in each student's ability to succeed. For decades I have seen how fulfilling this mission takes the hard work of faculty of all ranks, many of whom are not fully supported via time or compensation as they work toward student success and fulfilling our social justice mission. Serving on the Exceptional Assigned Times Committee will allow me to bring my long history of service expertise to this role, helping to equitably provide much-needed support to faculty working tirelessly for our students.